

For the Unconvinced

Academics and business people have refused to confront or even admit that the banks are creating money because those who were warning them were seen as uneducated rednecks. The well educated would not accept truth because it was not presented by some professor seen as more brilliant than themselves. WELL here it is at last - an explanation of Fractional Reserve Banking that everyone can understand.

For the Young

The people of this generation are not readers. They are attuned to videos and computer screens. Unless we give them vital information in a format that they will comprehend, digest and react to, we will never wake them to the financial dangers they face. The video THE BANKS is the medicine they need. I can supply a copy for $!5 posted. Do your children a favour. Get them to read this book and watch the video THE BANKS.
